

Project Manager – Switzerland

- Join our Global HQ team; work with some of the best in the agri-tech sector
- Drive robust project management processes – hold people to account
- Utilise your talent to take product from R&D to manufacture to commercialisation

Ticino Region - Incredible lakes, Alps, landscape; great location for families to live, explore, travel; a genuine haven for outdoor enthusiasts...

An incredibly diverse and stimulating opportunity, you'll be at the forefront of driving and supporting our internal and external channels to ensure they are on track to produce their key deliverables within project timelines and budget. You'll work alongside a progressive and forward thinking team who strive to exceed customer and market expectations therefore as an experienced and respected Project Manager, this should align with how you operate.

With a range of new, existing and advanced technologies in play, this is an opportune time to join our business to manage key global projects across our Livestock Identification portfolio. We need your input and expertise across cultivating robust project management framework and processes which will ultimately enhance our performance and project outcomes.

A highly visible role, you'll interact across R&D, sales, marketing and manufacturing, plus third parties and vendors, as well as providing coaching and leadership to project team members, therefore you'll have an innate ability to establish strong relationships and ensure everyone is working together effectively towards a common goal. You may be at a stage where your key driver is exploring a lifestyle change or perhaps you have a few years' experience in project management and looking for an opportunity to step up and really excel your career forward.

Essential to your success will be your career wins in managing complex multi-disciplined projects combined with PMP qualifications (or similar). Exposure in electronics manufacturing, software and mechanical components would be advantageous, however your aptitude to learn is more important. You'll be someone who communicates a clear vision and strategy, has a systematic approach to problem solving, grasps complexities, negotiates effectively, recognises and balances the interests of all involved and has a passion for influencing and supporting others to take action.

An integral role to play, you'll work alongside a dedicated and driven Head of Product Management who provides a collaborative team culture, direction and support, values ideas and gives you the scope to get on and deliver. If you have a dual passport or maybe you are an ex-pat looking to return home, this could be a career enhancing opportunity to consider, however we are also open to a range of candidates open to exploring a move to Switzerland. If you are already a local to Ticino or surrounding regions and have a goal for a career change in 2020, this could be the one!

Located in the simply stunning Ticino Region in Switzerland, over a third of our team utilise our subsidised public transport benefit and we are only a 10 minute walk to the train station. You'll discover a range of areas within the region that offers affordable living options and you'll never be left wondering how to fill your free time with so many amazing outdoor adventures on your door step!

Please express your interest with an application to Mel Pantelides, Recruitment Lead – melanie.pantelides@datamars.com. Applicants will ideally have the right to work in Switzerland.

Follow us on LinkedIn <https://www.linkedin.com/company/datamars-sa>